With reference to women's employment rates, that of the Autonomous Community of the Basque Country, at 57.3%, is near to the EU-27 average (58.3%). In this sense, the evolution of this indicator over the last few years can also be qualified as noteworthy within the Basque Country, as it rose from 34.4% in 1995, to 43.0% in 2000 and 57.3% in 2007.

The following countries in Northern Europe were at top of this ranking 2007: Denmark (73.2%), Sweden (71.8%), Holland (69.6%) and Finland (68.5%) were at the top of this table. However, Malta (36.9%), Italy (46.6%) and Greece (47.9%) were the countries with the lowest women's employment rates. Spain, on the other hand, went from having a rate of 31.7% in 1995, to 41.3% in 2000 and 54.7% in 2007, that is to say, below the average of the EU-27.

However, it is also interesting to point out that the Autonomous Community of the Basque Country had, in 2007, an employment rate of the population aged between 55 and 64 of 41.2%, below the average of the EU-27 (44.7%) and that of Spain (44.6%).
